Solvere Senior Living Offers Management Services

Princeton, NJ – Solvere Senior Living is the new name for the management arm of Solutions Advisors, a Princeton-based consulting firm specializing in senior living. Kristin Kutac Ward, President and CEO of Solutions Advisors, revealed the name along with the announcement of the development of their newest community, Homestead at Hamilton, in New Jersey.

“Solutions Advisors has always provided management services on both an interim and long-term basis,” said Kutac Ward. “Naming it Solvere Senior Living makes it distinct from our other business lines.”

Rooted in Latin meaning “to solve,” Solvere taps into the talents of professionals with expertise in operations, business, finance, and marketing. John Ralosky serves as Chief Operating Officer with Lorie Dancy as Vice President of Clinical Services among other team members whose experience includes some of the most highly recognized senior living providers on the national stage.

Solvere Senior Living is an equity partner, developer and future operator for Homestead at Hamilton, a 195-unit senior living community under development in central New Jersey, and also serves as the operator for communities located in Indiana, West Virginia and Maryland owned by affiliates of WMD Asset Management, LLC, a national leader in whole loan, mortgage-backed securities and real estate investments.

“We want the Solvere brand to be recognized as a premier management company bringing creativity and innovative solutions to senior living communities,” said Kutac Ward. “Our focus on wellness programming and customer service, combined with our marketing strength will set the stage for successful communities.”
